Andre Rachele

Andrea Rachele is a swimwear and fitness model from San Diego, California. While she was born in San Diego, she grew up in various states all over the country being in a military family. By middle school, her family moved back to Southern California and it is then that Andrea realized that she definitely wanted to stay there. While in high school, she discovered a passion for cheerleading, dance and living a healthy lifestyle. She finished high school and decided to pursue a degree in business to become the ultimate package of beauty and brains! During her time in college, Andrea realized what a deep passion for health and fitness she had. Diagnosed with Type 1 diabetes at the age of 20, her life would change forever. It was then she decided to pursue fitness with a vengeance for the sake of her health and to be an inspiration to anyone else struggling with his or her health and fitness goals. Today, she is extremely active and a self-proclaimed gym addict! When she isn't in the gym she uses modeling to showcase all of her hard work and confidence she has gained from living a healthy lifestyle. It is through her lifestyle and modeling she hopes to inspire and motivate others to live a life they love.

ANN
MARIE

PHOTOS BY DONNIE SMITH

Model, Ann Marie show cases a unique and tasteful career in modeling. A wife, and mother of five boys, exhibits an intense beauty from act, and exposure in the modeling world. Ann Marie from Charleston SC, has been on her own since she was 17yrs old and decided then to become a model. Her modeling style exhibits beauty personified in her clothes, self-expression and exquisite photo shoots. Not to mention that Ann continuously delivers to the audience a taste of hope in that success is not just in the eye of the beholder. The audience becomes captivated in such elegance as her beauty becomes camera worthy and crowd pleasing. Ann Marie's photography at times has been performed by her husband who also plays a huge part in her career as a model. She states, "He is not just my photographer but he is my soulmate." After interviewing Ann on her modeling career, I found out that this model is a deep rooted mother, a dedicated wife, a hard worker, and a lover of life. She carries all of her desires in her career as she expresses what a woman such as Ann can do when putting her mind into a career. Ann has a flare for the camera, a touch of class for her audience and a sense of uniqueness in what she does. Her accomplishments in her career goes as far as modeling clothes, promotion of clubs, working with film producers, novel modeling for authors, actors, and promoting for her friends in the entertainment industry. When interviewing Ann, she demonstrated the passion that she has for what she calls, "A classy elegant beauty with emotion." A fantastic array of taste and of choice in modeling is what this model offers to the industry. Her memories speak aloud on how she feels not just as a wife, mother, worker but as a woman. She enjoys being in love with her husband and feeling the, "All the love touches of their relationship." Furthermore, Ann enjoys reading novels, spending time with her children and her husband. She has a liking for relaxing and enjoying life to the fullest when not on the modeling set and camera end. This is a true dedication on her part as she continues her journey in her career. Gladly, Ann Marie continues to pursue a higher level of modeling to benefit her family and herself. There is no question on this model's passion for her work and for life itself. In a business that is driven by sexual taste in beauty, Ann showcases much more. "She is the total package" in the modeling industry, yet a presence of self-respect, consistency, love, commitment and gratitude is evident within her. Ann thanks all of her supporters such as photographer Donnie Smith, writer Edwin Rivera and friends that have helped her in elevating her career. One can conclude that a woman such as Ann Marie, brings a lot to the modeling industry. It is difficult not to cheer for such a talent as Ann Marie. Such class, commitment and love for her career and as a human being is as what many in the industry would call, "True talent." In closing, let this model show case her talent, not just in modeling but in life's overall experiences.

Jean Dara

Hello, my name is Jean Dara. I am from the Philippines. I started modeling much later than others. Modeling gives me an opportunity to travel and meet very creative minds and talent. Most of the people in my circle are from this industry. I enjoy every bit of the experience and I've learned so much along the way. I have modeled for about 5 years. I still do but I've been very selective of my modeling assignments.

Even before I started modeling I found myself spending lots of time looking through boutique windows admiring cutting edge designs by famous designers. I knew then that my calling was in designing clothes. My main inspiration are designers Jeremy Scott and Balmain. I've always liked to wear rompers and jumpsuits to make me look taller. I like designing clothing that are trendy, fashionable, yet wearable.

I don't have and formal training on design but I've always been passionate about the art of styling and design. As a model, I do my own styling and pick out my own clothes whenever I have that opportunity. Every summer I attend seminars and workshops on design to enhance my skills and knowledge.

A career in fashion design is not for the faint of heart. Morally and emotionally, my family is very supportive of my career both as a model and as a designer. I think it is very important to have that in anyone's career path. It's very important to stay focused. Budget is always an issue so for starters I take a lot of mental notes on what I see online and on boutiques. Most of my inspirations come from what I see from flea markets and neighborhood sales. Reinventing and salvaging failed design is very fulfilling.

So what is my typical day like? I wake up, have a cup of tea, make my own Filipino breakfast, and then surf instagram. I wait for a text or PM from a friend and the content of that message is usually what dictates my day.

Everyone's got a dream and I have one too. For now, I'd be happy to have a collection featured in any fashion week. I'd love to have a traveling collection going to most major cities in Asia: Hong Kong, Singapore, Bangkok, Seoul, etc. And, of course every designer's dream: Paris, London, NY, and LA. Someone asked me before: What is the message behind your clothes? Two messages come to mind... "Life is too short to blend in" and "You don't have to be rich and famous to look like one"

Thayane

Thayane is a very joyful and playful model. It is almost surreal the way her laughs and jokes suddenly switch to a posed expression when the lens of the camera points in her direction, and vice versa. Simple and humble as a person, Thayane transforms herself into a strong, sensual, determinate and sophisticated model.

Living in the free spirit island of Florianopolis, Brazil, Thayane loves challenging the local large natural sand dunes, riding them with her sandboard. That is quite the exercise! There are no chairlifts on sundunes!!!

Thayane poses mostly for Brazilian bikini catalogs and local artists, while enjoying the beautiful Brazilian coastline of Floripa, surfers' paradise.
