My goal is to lose at least 8 kilos in 2 weeks 😊 as well as to reach a huge amount of followers on Instagram so my challenge is to reach at least 20k followers on Instagram in a year, I am also planning to create an online clothing boutique so this would help a lot, and one of my dreams would be to travel the world and become a travel blogger 😊... Concerning my achievements, i can't think of much for now, a lot has happened the last two years in my life so I haven't yet achieved what I wanted but I'm happy to live in a beautiful island here in greece 😊

Hi, I am Elise from the UK, I have been modeling for just over a year now, after my first shoot I had so much fun that I continued to do more, I enjoy many styles of modeling, including swimwear, fashion and dance and I have a good mixture on my Instagram page. My first love is dance and I have been dancing for over 8 years, I train in Ballet, Tap, Modern and Street, I have been in many dance shows and continue to do so, I will also be dancing in Disneyland Paris in 2022 which is something I am really excited about. My dream is to continue what I'm doing with dance and modeling and enjoy all my experiences along the way. Who knows what the future holds.

My dream is to show people that no matter your background or doubts or fears you can still push through and go for your dreams. I am a childhood cancer survivor and being a model has always been a dream of mine, I want to show people that you can continue to show up for yourself and push yourself to greater heights. I aspire to continue this journey and grow.

I am a 40+ professional woman who recently embarked on a journey to dip my feet into the modeling agency. I have done so with a goal to encourage industry and brand professionals to continue to add more diversity in their use of "real people" models. While they have begun to do so, there still exists many barriers for models that don't fit the mold, so to speak.

For example, I am a truly "petite" model at 5'1" and nearing age 50, without thousands of $$$ accessible to me to spend on elaborate photo portfolio shoots. So it has not been easy entering this work successfully, but I'm determined to keep trying! So far, in just this past year, I have been successful in building a diverse and extensive modeling portfolio (mostly through TFP shoots), entered and finished 2nd/group in the 2021 Ms. Health &

Fitness competition, been signed by national modeling agencies, built/published my own website, and been published in 5 different magazines including a cover/editorial! And all while continuing to work my "day job"!

From here I hope to turn my attention to some continued paid modeling work with those in the industry who are ready to bring me on board (along with my professional enthusiasm) in representing all the style and beauty our GenX women have to offer! If I'm lucky, maybe I'll even be fortunate enough to grace the cover of a SI Swimsuit edition once I hit 50!

As a single mother to my amazing daughter, I have always faced challenges. I put myself through nursing school when she was still young. Now that she is grown, however, I have had time to truly discover and develop my passion for fitness, but this passion has not always been easy! After complications with several surgeries and my diagnosis of Borrelia Miyamotoi Disease, some days getting out of bed seems impossible, let alone going to the gym for a workout. My goals of becoming a fitness model and fitspiration for single moms and women over 40 is what helps me push through these hard times. After all, we single moms know that if we can raise our kids, we can do anything! Melissa

I am very blessed to not only have the opportunity to model but to have fun with this hobby and be a brand ambassador for several companies. I have modeled for several different businesses including JC Penney, Fashion Bug and Leather Loft just to name a few. I was asked to participate in a huge fashion/runway show for Ted Nugent and was honored to have been a part. I have been blessed with being the cover model on a few different magazines and published in many. I was

Ms Fitness of Michigan in 1989. I was an extra in the movie Killer Keg. Some of my greatest challenges are that I don't have enough time to do all I want to do. I am blessed with my awesome family and my wonderful husband giving me all the support to continue to do what I love to do, and for this I'm very grateful.
